

Text before the block child, long enough to wrap onto a second line inside the anonymous box that holds it.

A block child between two runs of text.

Text after the block child, also long enough to need a second line of its own.