

Text beside a float that crosses the page boundary, with enough words in it to run past the break and keep flowing beside the float's lower half on the page after it.

