

This paragraph starts near the bottom of the first page and has enough text to run past the boundary, so the break has to fall between two of its lines rather than through one of them.